

The Sörve Sosin

The Least Trusted News Source in the Milky Way

Wednesday January 9 2013

INSIDE: Why all the boats? - We answer all your questions regarding the unexpected presence of luxury boats to the East of the Peninsular
BACK PAGE: Suit & Aliens - Our photographers explore the age old question; Are we alone in this universe? PHOTO ESSAY

A SOSIN SPECIAL INVESTIGATION

THE CASE OF THE MISSING GLASSES

Questions have been raised about the the loss of Peeter Mirlieb's glasses after his boat capsised during Monday's Kanuu Carnival. Peeter, a long-term camper from Tare 4, was devastated when his trademark designer spectacles (seen right) sunk to the bottom of the lake.

Laagri Vanem Peter Maasepp took time out from his somewhat busy schedule to throw on his snorkel and search for the glasses - with no luck. Rumour has it Bunyip Berty has never had the best eyesight and may have pinched the glasses. We'll keep an eye out and will update you if any suspicious pictures emerge.

THE BUNYIP CLAIMS ITS FIRST VICTIM

By Jacinta Boyd, Freya Lipping, Vivien Kuru, Cassie Johansen and Bella Francis of Tare 10 (Teeserviis)

Another Sörve camper has been noticed to have bite marks on her upper arm. This shows that one of the Bunyip's warrior minions has been out and about to try to suck some blood samples as it has run out of food. Who is going to be the next victim?

(People with blonde hair should look out. You may be next)

THE FUTURE OF SÖRVE LOOKS TO BE IN SAFE HANDS

MEN IN BLACK

Agents and Aliens

U

G

L

Y

Green, mean, alien machines

C Grupp dress ups

Can I have your attention please

And then the belly said to the face...

Bloop bloop bloop bloop

NATUKE: Why do chicken coops only have two doors? Because if they had four doors they'd be a chicken sedan!

THE WISE WORDS OF PETER MAASEPP

Our faithful Laagri Vanem continues to deliver his distorted perspective upon his co-juhid at meal times?

"... I can't remember the last time I walked into Woolies - I reckon it's all a scam anyway. From the minute you walk in they're all trying to push product in your face with you all this jazzy marketing. Just give me my bread and leave me alone..."

"... Pigs are fascinating - the way they just love life and wallow in the mud. We had a pet pig called Craig when I was young. He was great for the family but I'll tell you what, it didn't end too well. He had a heart attack..."

"... You know why The Beatles were so big don't you? Timing... it's all about timing. See this Justin Beeper or Blooper, or whatever, isn't a 'good singer' - he is just a 'good timer'... hahaha..."

Peter: Hendrik do you have the time?

Hendrik: 9:20 ish

Peter: Thanks...ish. haha...

Peter: What's that you're drinking there? Gin and tonic? That's an old persons drink...

WHY ALL THE BOATS?

Anyone who is wondering where Laagri Juht Kati Koreneff disappears to - we may have the answer for you. A number of luxury yachts have been spotted mooring around the shores of Pt Wolly over the past days. As noted in previous editions of Sosin, Kati, who has a penchant for the finest things in life, has been spotted sipping on piña colodas aboard a suspicious boat. Rumour has it she has asked her fancy boat-owning friends to moor close by for when she needs a break from the hectic camp schedule.

HOT PAWN AT SÕRVE

Yesterday's extreme heat saw two campers' epic chess match (on the giant chessboard) end surprisingly. What started as a game of chess, ended as a game of checkers.

Just after lunch Kaili Lehtsalu and Kayla Sandy began a no-time-limit match of chess and by 2:15pm a bishop had keeled over and melted into a puddle of plastic. All the other pieces were to meet a similar fate soon after.

When interviewed by the Sosin team, Kayla had this to say "I moved my pawn to E5, then Kaili took my pawn by jumping... backwards. That's when I knew the game had changed."

There has been no plan of rematch.

Queen at 8am

Queen/Checker at midday

