HOT TIPS FOR INSPECTION FROM YEARS GONE BY: DOT AND TONI

- Fold your toilet paper like a hotel
- Sleep in another bed or the floor so you don't have to make yours everyday
- Get creative with your bribes (day spa vouchers would go a long way!)
- Test the tightness of your sheets by bouncing a coin of them
- Pack a cleaning buddy aka your vacuum cleaner
- Refrain from 'messy deposits' just before inspection to ensure a fresh smelling bathroom
- Clean your tare the night before for a stress free morning

Estonian Folklore

If you treat the Skylark spirit well at the start of spring, it will give you good luck and good health for a year, but if you treat it poorly then it takes away your ability to sing.

Happy Birthday

A labor of Love...Pirukad

Maie Pikkat

According to legend, our beloved Estonian Pirukad unfortunately derived from the Russian Perogi. But the Eestlased have perfected this wonderful treat for us to enjoy for many generations. A pirukas is generally made with a yeast dough, but could also be made with a flaky pastry dough. The best ones (in my opinion), and most popular are the half moon shapes, but they can be prepared on a sheet pan, as a roll or a tart. Fillings a varied including pork, beef, ham, bacon, onion, cabbage, carrot, mushrooms or anything your imagination can think of. Southern Estonians tend to use pork - which is what my family tradition is, in my observation, the Northern Estonians use beef. My family recipe has been handed down to me from my grandmother, and is now being used by my children, making it four generations old.

When preparing pirukad it is a family/village affair, as there are many processes involved, making this delectable delight. We are fortunate enough to have a 'village' of people at Sõrve to make them this year for everyone to enjoy for the 60th celebrations, as they are traditionally a celebration food.

PIRUKAD QUIZ

How many pirukad did A & B Group manage to make?

Submit your answers (with your name) into the box in the söögisaal for your chance to win a prize!

Said at Sõrve

'What's your favorite Land rover engine?' said on A group hike

KÄSITÖÖ

In Käsitöö, A grupp have been working on wooden carving boxes, drawing some inspiration from traditional Estonian carvings.

B grupp have already made their own jelly soap to encourage that personal hygiene at Sõrve (Ujumine ei ole dužž!) and are now creating beaded keychains.

Folk Costume Display

The Estonian Folk Costumes in Australia Display and Photography exhibition is now open. We have a selection of costumes for viewing as well as a portrait gallery of our community members wearing rahvarõivad. We aim to preserve the history & provenance of Estonian Folk costumes in Australia via photography and documentation.

A-Grupp Vs Leaders

In an absolutely thrilling match of indoor rahvastepall, dignity and pride were on the line! Juhid took the first match but lost their momentum in the second. With some fair decisions from the experienced and respected referee Arvi, the Juhid prevailed the champions this year.

2-1 JUHID, JUHID, JUHID!

Esto Quiz

- Why did Faehlmann think Estonian language doesn't have distinct he and she for gender?
 - Estonian language was not as developed as German and French languages.
 - There was no need to create superfluous words since throughout history in Estonian culture, both men and women have roles that were equally respected.
 - In fact there is a distinct male and female gender but throughout time, Estonians have dropped it to show defiance against German and Russian influences,
 - To confuse their masters.

Ice road - the symbol of a great Estonian winter

When the winter gets cold enough to create thick ice, all the official ice roads in Estonia can be opened. These provide a total of more than 80 km of ice roads. There are 7 official ice roads in Estonia connecting the mainland and various islands. This may seem novel, exciting and even unbelievable for someone from a different culture. And ice roads provide unforgettable travel experiences.
