

THE SOSIN

OVP enjoyed by most

The moment of impact.

Honestly, I'm a little peeved right now. I just showered and to be truthful I do Sosin so technically I'm not even a true leader but I still got doused in whatever the heck was in that bucket. I legitimately was going to throw up and that wouldn't have been a pretty sight. And if I can be honest just one more time, I'm still feeling dizzy from the fumes. Doesn't matter, the bell shall toll for thee soon enough. The rest of it was actually very well organised and thought out. The inspections were fair and balanced and the games were interesting exciting. After lunch the A Groupers reconvened at the rec hut for an afternoon of rahvatants. Meanwhile, the B Groupers were having fun on the open water, canoeing. This was followed by a little bit of rahvastepall and ultimate frisbee. By the way if any of the oldest A groupers want to come apologise to me for almost making me physically ill I'm more than happy to accept it. - Tomas, keyboard warrior

Toilet paper is your friend. Keep a sneaky roll hidden out of site.

It's hard being imaginative. Google skits before camp, no one will notice.

Keep all your previous Sörve memorabilia for inspection the following year.

Shower in the pool bathroom after swimming. They're the best in Point Wooly.

What 5 letter word becomes shorter by adding two extra letters to it?

Answer will be published when solved.

*The answer for yesterdays puzzle was "Tennis shoes"
Congrats to Ella Scott, again!*

Prison Game

Pandemonium last night as the inmates of Sõrve Correctional Facility assaulted the warden and broke free of their bonds. The job to secure the prisoners was left to the elanikud. Despite their heavy-handed methods, most of the prisoners were secured and returned to their cells, safe albeit a little bruised.

It's getting close, tomorrow is the last FULL DAY of camp. Where did the time go? Whoever captured me last night during Prison Game, I just want to let you know I have this pain in my lower back and I didn't have it before the game, I'm not insinuating anything but it's a funny coincidence.

Great Moments in Estonian History

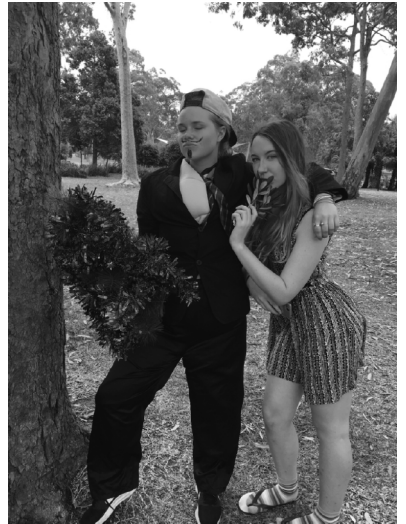

Estonia declared it's Restoration of Independence on August 20 1991, even as Soviet tanks still rolled the streets, Estonia's people stood strong as the USSR disintegrated quickly after.

The A Groupers have finally hit the wall

CORRECTIONS: Fine, you win. I did make a few mistakes. But you know, I'm only human after all. We all make mistakes sometimes and since I'm not perfect like all of you are, I'm not gonna hand out any prizes. Sorry. That's the way it goes. It was all a trick to get you to read the entire Sosin anyway and you all fell for it.

Issue 4:

- Miles Bailiht also gave me a correct answer to issue 3's riddle but I forgot to mention him. Miles Bailiht is smarter than most of you and he's only in C Group; I'm sorry Miles!
- *Lily
- The printer obscured some text on page four over a topless picture of David. The text reads "Separated at Birth? David Kass and Estonian Model Carmen Kass".
- I meant to say Siiri and Emily are better than Remy and Oskar, not to knock Rowan's handles at all.
- There was text cut off the bottom of the "Daily 'Too Hard' Basket", it was suppose to be completely cut off.
